At 9pm, officers responded to the 1900 block of Lilliano Drive to investigate a report of a disturbance. An intoxicated female started an argument with her boyfriend and began slapping him repeatedly about the chest and arms. In an attempt to get her to stop, the boyfriend pushed her into the pool. Minutes later, the girlfriend appeared at the rear door with a shovel and began striking the rear door. When the boyfriend tried to stop her from damaging the door, she started swinging the shovel at him. The girlfriend became further enraged and threw objects about the room. When the police arrived, she was arrested for Domestic Violence. The boyfriend sustained visible injuries to his chest, wrists and arms.

At 9:30pm, a resident in the 500 block of Auburn Avenue was inside her home when she heard the side gate leading to her rear yard open. Moments later she observed a male wearing a black hoodie looking in at her from a rear window. The resident immediately called the police and the suspect fled. At 9:30pm, a resident in the 700 block of Auburn Avenue was returning home and observed a silver compact car parked in the no parking zone at the access point to the catch basin. He found this to be suspicious and notified the police department as he drove into his garage. Immediately upon entering his residence, he noticed that portions of the interior had been ransacked. He again called the police who arrived at the location within two minutes. However, by the time they arrived, the suspicious vehicle was no longer at the location. The investigation determined that unknown suspects gained entry through a rear bedroom window using a pry tool to compromise the lock. Once inside, they ransacked the bedroom and removed a firearm that was in a drawer. It is possible the owner interrupted the crime when he returned home as the suspects apparently fled using the same bedroom window.
